NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Submission:

1. Three copies of a paper or note should be submitted to the Managing Editor in a form suitable for sending anonymously to the reviewers. Copies must be typed on one side of the paper only, in double spacing. A fourth copy should be retained by the author, because submissions will not be returned.

2. Papers should be accompanied by a record of the author's name, address, affiliation, and a contact telephone or fax number where possible. All papers should include a summary of no more than 100 words.

3. Because of heavy pressures on space, papers should not exceed 30–35 double-spaced pages, including summary, tables, figures, notes, and references.

Presentation, format, and house style:

4. Since development affects women as well as men, World Development uses gender-neutral language. For example, "man" is not acceptable as a generic term ("human" is), and masculine pronouns should only be applied to males.

5. World Development uses American rather than British spelling. Numbers from zero to nine should be written out; numerals should be used for all other numbers.

6. Bibliographical references should be carefully checked for accuracy. Every reference cited in the paper, whether in the text, tables or figures, must be listed in the References section. Book references should give (in this order) author name(s), full title, place of publication, publisher, and year of publication. Journal references should give author name(s), full title, journal title, volume and issue numbers, year, and inclusive page numbers. References to privately circulated or mimeographed material should contain the name and location of the appropriate department or institution.

7. Broad divisions and section headings should be clearly marked in the text where appropriate. Any quotations should appear in double marks, with quotations that exceed 40 words indented in the text.

8. The full mathematical workings necessary for justifying each step of the argument should accompany all papers of a mathematical character in order to assist the referees. These workings will not be published.

9. Notes should be numbered consecutively and placed at the end of the paper (not at the bottom of each page). Authors' acknowledgements should be given on a separate sheet, and will be printed on the first page of the article.

10. Figures should be clearly drawn, with clearly marked axes. They should be submitted on separate sheets (not in the text) and accompanied by the basic statistics required for their preparation.

11. Statistical tables should be submitted on separate sheets (not in the text). Each row or column should be clearly labeled with appropriate headings, units of measurement, etc. Base dates for index numbers, geographical area covered, units of measurement, and sources should be clearly stated. Vertical lines may not be used in tables, and horizontal lines should be kept to a minimum.

12. The positions of tables and figures should be clearly marked in the text; these will be adhered to wherever practicable.

Proofs and reprints:

13. Authors are expected to correct proofs expeditiously and to keep alterations to a minimum; the original typescript must be regarded as definitive. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for excessive authors' corrections made in proof.

14. Twenty-five reprints are provided free of charge. Further copies may be purchased at a discount if ordered on the form which accompanies the author's proofs.

Copyrights:

15. It is the responsibility of the author to obtain written permission for republication of previously published material, including figures and tables, from the author and publisher of the source publication.

Comments on published articles

Anyone wishing to submit comments on an article is asked to start by sending a copy to the author, inviting the author to send the commentator his or her observations, and in particular to explain any points on which the commentator has misunderstood the author. The commentator is asked to allow the author a reasonable time to reply before sending anything to the editor, and to enclose any reply received from the author. If the editor accepts the comment for publication, the original author will be given a chance to make a short reply in the same issue.

WORLD DEVELOPMENT: AIMS AND SCOPE

World Development is a multidisciplinary monthly journal of development studies. It seeks to explore ways of improving standards of living, and the human condition generally, by examining potential solutions to problems such as: poverty, unemployment, malnutrition, disease, illiteracy, lack of shelter, environmental degradation, inadequate scientific and technological resources, trade and payments imbalances, international debt, gender and ethnic discrimination, violation of human rights, militarism and civil conflict, and lack of popular participation in economic and political life.

We invite contributions that offer constructive ideas and analysis, and that highlight the lessons to be learned from the experiences of different nations, societies, and economies.

World Development welcomes contributions that discuss these issues in new and imaginative ways, particularly if they point to reform and policy recommendations.

World Development recognizes "development" as a process of change involving nations, economies, political alliances, institutions, groups, and individuals. Development processes occur in different ways and at all levels: inside the family, the firm and the farm; locally, provincially, nationally, and globally.

Our goal is to learn from one another, regardless of nation, culture, income, academic discipline, profession, or ideology. We hope to set a modest example of enduring global cooperation through maintaining an international dialogue and dismantling barriers to communication.
